GLAD TO OBLIGE YOU.

Since the Waco Times-Herald is a stickler for unequivocal political utterance, will it please state what specific stand the Houston convention announces on the tariff question that commands its unqualified approval?—Houston Post.

The entire tariff plank is good. But this part is particularly pleasing up here within these four walls, decorated with alluring calendars:

"No party having for its battle cry, 'We demand our share of the spoils,' can hope to rout the forces of graft and greed."

We don't know how that could be improved on, especially when put alongside the tariff plank of the Galveston platform.—Waco Times-Herald.

That "we demand our share of the spoils" is a regular bugaboo to the Times-Herald. Brother Robinson must have gotten scared at it when he was a boy and he still shys when he comes near it like a horse does at a black stump by the roadside at which he was frightened when a colt. There simply isn't anything to it. Under our present tariff system, a duty on raw material is just a matter of good, hard, common horse sense.

Why, there won't be any Houston platform after the Baltimore convention. That platform will be carried up to Baltimore as the expression of Texas democracy. It will go in the national democratic hopper. The meal that comes out of that hopper is what all democrats must feed on. Asking the July primaries to review the Houston platform would be as foolish as asking the July primaries to review the Dred Scott decision or the cause of the Titanic disaster. Just as there was no Marjorie Daw, so there will be no Houston platform after the Baltimore convention has spoken.—Waco Times-Herald.

So. Then after the Baltimore convention the only authentic declaration of principles by the democracy of Texas will be the platform adopted at Galveston two years ago.

If that little town of Bryan, down the line, does not wake up soon she will have nothing left but a school, and that five miles away.—Calvert Picayune.

Whamatter, bud? We thought we was a-doin' fine. We got schools, lots of them, and everything else, and still a-gittin'. You sho'ly ain't been here lately, bud. When we come up to that Hood's Brigade reunion we air goin' to take an hour or two in tellin' you just what we have got.

President Taft has a majority in the republican national executive committee, and the indications are they are going to see what effect a large-sized steam roller will have on the Terrible Teddy.

A correct census would put Bryan over the six thousand mark.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

A stitch in time beats two in the side.

Many a sober young man turns out to be a gay old boy.

The gossip of today may be the superstition of tomorrow.

Most homely women are clever—probably because they have to be.

Conscience is always getting in the way of your having a good time.

You can't judge what there is in a woman's head by the size of her hat.

It is easy to appreciate the beauties of the simple life—if you are not obliged to live it.

All men are born free and equal, and each has everything his own way—until he is a year or two old.

As a matter of fact, a woman never enjoys crying unless there is a man present whose feelings she wants to hurt.

Many a woman goes to her grave with the one regret that she had a lot of bargain remnants saved up that she never got a chance to use.

After the Mother.

"Does your son take after you?"
"I used to think he was going to, but now that he's in college he shows every sign of taking after his mother."
"That so?"
"Yes; the only thing he's made know he's been there is the debating society."—Detroit Free Press.

Made it Clear

"Algernon, and the first woman you have ever loved?"
"Not exactly. I was in love with my teacher at ten and with a circus rider at twelve. But you are the first girl I have ever asked to marry me, my dear."—Washington Herald.

FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN

Washington, June 8.—(Copyrighted, 1912, by W. T. Foster.)—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent June 11 to 15, warm wave June 10 to 14, cool wave June 13 to 17. The week of this disturbance is expected to average a little cooler than the previous week. Occasional showers, but a noticeable decrease in rainfall, particularly in those sections where excessive rains occurred in March, April and May.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about June 17, cross Pacific slope by close of 18th, great central valleys 19th to 21st, eastern sections 22d. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about June 17, great central valleys 19th, eastern sections 21st. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about June 20, great central valleys 22d, eastern sections 24th.

Unusually cool weather will be inaugurated by this disturbance, and some rain is expected where less than usual rain occurred during March, April and May. Where no rains occur it will not be so cool.

We are not facing great events in crop weather and these events, as I see it, will be of great importance. No general crop failure is expected, but in large sections corn and cotton and other products that depend on July and August weather will make short crops. This, of course, will greatly injure some people and greatly benefit others. In sections where good crops will be produced unusual profits are assured.

But the consumer can not hope for crops this year that will greatly lower the cost of living and therefore economy should be the watchword. But there is no danger in suffering for food. Our physicians say that we eat too much and perhaps a little economy might improve health.

Those who are interested in cotton, corn and other products should not overlook the civil wars in Mexico and Cuba. While those people fight they must be fed and they are not producing foodstuffs while they are fighting. This condition will surely increase the demand for our farm and plantation products.

As the winter wheat crop will be short much will depend on the spring wheat sections. As a rule these have started under splendid conditions, although a little late in some sections. Generally the spring wheat sections hold moisture well and that promises fair crops even where it may be dry during later part of the growing season.
